DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 1-3,8-12 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Herold et al. (US 6803345; 10/12/04). Herold et al teach microemulsion forming concentrates comprising a herbicide (abstract, column 3 lines 32-45). Herold et al. teach that a microemulsion comprise an oil phase and water (column 3 lines 46-67, column 9 line 59 - column 10 line 8). The microemulsion concentrate include nonionic surfactants, cationic surfactants such as ethoxylated tallow amine and anionic surfactants such as ethoxylated tristyrylphenol phosphate potassium salt (column 7 line 23—column 8 line 27). The microemulsion may contain an adjuvant (column 21 lines 15-40). Herold et al. do not exemplify an invention existing as a crop oil concentrate or a microemulsion comprising an amine surfactant plus a phosphate ester plus a hydrocarbon oil. Herold et al.s' microemulsion would automatically exist as a crop oil concentrate since Herold et al teach that the concentrate contains oil (column 3 line 46-67). Herold et al. suggest that microemulsions contain herbicide, amine surfactant, phosphate ester, hydrocarbon oil and water. Thus, Herold er al. suggest instant invention.

Claims 1,2,8-12 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Mueinghoff (US 6156705; 12/5/00) Mueninghoff teaches an adjuvant composition comprising an anionic surfactant such as phosphate esters, a nonionic surfactant such as ethoxylated fatty amines or vegetable oil or mineral oil and mixtures thereof.

Mueinghoff teaches the addition of herbicides to the adjuvant composition (column 1 line 50 – column 2). Mueinghoff teaches that the pesticide composition which is a concentrate can be diluted water (column 6 lines 1-19). Mueinghoff does not exemplify an invention existing as a crop oil concentrate or a microemulsion comprising an amine surfactant plus a phosphate ester plus a hydrocarbon oil. Mueinghoff's concentrate would automatically exist as a crop oil concentrate since Mueinghoff et al teach that the concentrate contains oil (column 1 line 50 – column 2). Mueinghoff suggest that concentrate contain herbicide, amine surfactant, phosphate ester, Mueinghoff hydrocarbon oil and water. Thus, Mueinghoff. suggest instant invention.

Claims 1,2, are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Kowalik et al (US 6464996; 10/15/2002). Kowalik teaches a thickened oil flowable concentrate comprising a surfactant (abstract, column 3). Kowalik teaches that the surfactant includes alkoxyated amines (column 3 lines 53-65). Kowalik does not exemplify the oil concentrate comprising alkoxyated amines. However it would have been obvious to make an oil concentrate comprising alkoxyated amines since Kowalik suggests such an oil concentrate.

Claims 1 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Elsik et al. (USAN 20040142823 or 10/476964; 11/6/03). Elsik et al teach an adjuvant composition comprising polyoxyalkylene alkylamines (page 3 lines 13-20). Elsik et al teach that the adjuvant composition may exist in many forms including crop oil concentrate (page 30 lines 8 – 18). Elsik et al do not exemplify the oil concentrate comprising polyoxyalkylene alkylamines. However, it would have been obvious to make an oil concentrate comprising polyoxyalkylene alkylamines since Elsik et al suggests such an oil concentrate.
